HEN the Yale varsity crew goes to the starting line tomorrow for the annual rowing classic with Harvard, they will start with the shadow of the fatal "23" over them, for since the year 1852, Old Eli has beaten Harvard twenty-three times and the latter have been returned victors nineteen times. Taking the superstitious side of the case, the odds seem to favor Harvard, but the betting situation thus far has been that you could find Harvard men ready to give odds on their varsity eight and the sons of Old Ell ready and anxious to back their alma mater representatives with their

to back their alma mater representatives with their money. The crews are in the best bossible condition for the race, according to latest reports. From the time the crews have been making it does not seem unlikely that the mark of 24 minutes and 10 seconds made by Harvard last year will be knocked out and that there may be an appreach to the record.

Repeatedly in practise, the Yale crew has maintained a stroke of 34, 36 and 38 for iong stretches. The crew worked exceedingly well at the high stroke, the boat remaining on its keel. The spacing was good and the lunge at the catch was not pronounced. It seems likely that the inne crew is going to try to get away to an early start, judging from their practice methods for a high stroke has been used under all kinds of trying couditions. The Harvard crew, however, has been able to get away with a stroke of forty for a start, but in all spins that has taken, it wasn't long before the men dropped do wn to thirty-six. That seems to be their stroke will carry them further than the thirty-eight of the Eli crew, which is not composed of such big young men.

Whether a stroke of thirty-eight of the Eli crew, which is not composed of such big young men.

Whether a stroke of thirty-eight of the stroke will carry them further than the thirty-eight of the stroke of thirty-eight of the stroke will carry them further than the chirty-eight of the stroke of thirty-eight of the slower one of thirty-six made by question to be decided in the race.

The struggle on the water between Yale and Harvard has been going on since 1852. Since 1885 Harvard has won the eight-oar varsity race but five times, the last occasion being 1968.
This race between the eights of the

The A. A. U. has sent out a notice which should receive great attention in the athletic world. It is as follows:

"There has been quite some discussion in relation to haminer throwing and its dangers. Suggestions have been made that the rules be changed, and it has even been suggested that the Amateur Ataletic Union aboilsh hammer throwing.

"The matter has been discussed informally by seve all members of the board of governors of the Amateur Ataletic Union, and it will no doubt come up officially at the next annual meeting of the A. A. U. in November, and it felt that those who discuss hammer throwing will be able to not on same far more intelligently if they can get from the hammer-throwers of America an expression of opinion.

"It has been suggested that athletee go back to the old style of therty years agowooden handle; not the breakable handle, but the old style.

"It has been suggested that the loop handle be retained and define the size of the wire that must be used. Are you in favor of that?"

"Dots" Miller, the Kearny boy, was almost the whole show for the Pirates yesterday. He made three hits out of four times at bat, the first being a triple, which sewed up the game.

Booklyn played the Giants yesterday and of course, lost. It seems that the only pitchers that can give the New Yorkers a battle are "Sunny Jim" Pastorious and Rucker.

The bright star of the Yale-Harvard game yesterday was Eddie Van Vleck, the Montclair boy. He pitched the first six innings, holding Hervard's fast nine to a string of goose eggs in the tally line. After that inning Van Vleck went to right field, where he continued his great work in the game, which finally ended 4-0 in favor of Eli. Before he retired from the box he was guilty of one of the singles in the fifth inning and scored one of the three runs that gave Yale the lead. In the ninth inning Eddie probably saved a Harvard score when fielding a single from right field he caught the Yale hitter at second base. He struck out three men.

Here is a record of his day's work:

Krause continued his great work yes-terday and won his seventh ctraight vic-tory this season by shutting out Boston in the Red Sox-Athletic game, 9 to 0. He still remains unbeaten.

Mullin pitched for Defroit yesterday and shaded the Naps, with Cy Young in the box. The big Detroiter seems to have started another winning streak, which bids fair to rival his arst one of thirteen etralial.

MISJUDGED THE BALL.

James Ward, left fielder of the Ever Ready baseball team, of Bloomfield, was at practise on the Cautral grounds, in that town, yesterday afternoon when a player knocked a high fly in his direction. Several others ran for it, but Ward waved them to one side.

"Let it come, boys, I got it," he shouted. He got it all right, for it descended like lightning and when he misjindged it the hall struck him on the left thumb, dislocuting the latter. Dr. Shund dressed the injury, which will keep Ward out of the game for some time.

There is a change of scene tomorrow Rochester playing with Montreal, Buffal with Toronto, Baitimore with the fast-con-ing Providence Grays, while we will ente-tain the Skeeters.

Holly and Pattee were mainly responsible for the defeat of the Bison by the Hustlers yesterday. They each got a single, a double and a triple out of four times up, and kissinger was driven to the bench.

Since the report that Plitsburg had purchased Russell Blackburn, the Providence shortstop, that young man has been giving a scintillating exhibition of the game as it should be played. He had three hits yesterday and handled his chances with clock-like precision.

Foster is undoubtedly the most valuable man on the Skeeter team, but he has at least one error almost every day. The errors behind the pitcher allowed Providence to defeat Jersey City, after the Insects had a good lead. If Montreal has lost to Toronto this son on, the mind of man cannot recall the
